ORGANIZATION.

The several officers are charged with the entire course of instruction in their respective departments, and together constitute the Faculty of the Institution. This arrangement, while it gives efficiency to the several departments, brings them all under the same supervision, and secures a uniform course of discipline and instruction. That its advantages may be fully enjoyed, it is desired that those who wish to enter this Institution should apply for admission as soon as they are prepared for the Academic course.

ADMISSION.

No one is admitted into the Freshman class who is not fourteen years old, or to an advanced standing, without a corresponding advance in age. All are required to furnish evidence of a good moral character, and if from another College, a certificate of regular dismission.

Candidates for the ministry are examined in relation to their Christian experience. and call to the work, and, unless licensed, are required to present certificates of approval from their respective churches. A full license is not necessary previous to their commencing the study of Theology.

DEGREES.

By an arrangement made with Columbian College, Washington, D. C., the degrees of Bachelor and Master of Arts may be conferred upon those who have completed the course of studies in the Collegiate Department of this Institution.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of the winter session, on the studies of the two preceding terms.

At the close of the summer term, on the studies of the year; and

At the close of the Senior Collegiate year, on the studies of the course.

Total Expense,	$93,00

BENEFICIARIES.

Candidates for the ministry, in the Collegiate and Theological Departments, of suitable character and talents, may enjoy the patronage of the Education Society. The amount furnished to beneficiaries meets the expense of board and tuition; for the refunding of which, at some future period, a written pledge is taken by the Society.
